FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Experts peeling whitewash from the walls of a church basement have found about 50 drawings believed to be by Michelangelo and once regarded as scrawls to be covered up.

Dioclecio Redig de Campos, director of the Vatican museums and an internationally recognized Michelangelo expert, said he has no doubt the large charcoal drawings covering the walls of a corridor under the basilica of San Lorenzo are by the Renaissance master.

"Obviously, Michelangelo used the place as his workshop and storeroom while working at the Medici chapel above, and he made the drawings to develop ideas or simply for fun," Redig de Campos said Friday.

Paolo dal Poggetto, director of the Medici chapel, made the discovery by chance while looking for a new safety exit for the crowds of visitors to Michelangelo's famed 16th Century Medici tombs.

"I'd better look under the whitewash here before knocking down the wall, I told myself," dal Poggetto said, recalling an earlier discovery of works by Michelangelo's pupils.

Under the whitewash, he found two angels, a cloaked man and a head of Christ. "And it was unmistakably Michelangelo," dal Poggetto added. "You could tell from the style, quality and grandiose-ness, the typical stroke."

Discovery of the first drawings was announced New Year's Day. Since then, two art restorers working with scalpels have been taking two layers of whitewash from the rest of the basement corridor walls.

"It has been a continuous surprise," dal Poggetto said. "We hardly hoped that the original discovery could lead us to an entire gallery of Michelangelo's drawings."

The drawings come in all sizes and show faces, legs and other isolated details as well as a great figure of Christ.

"Some details recall Michelangelo's known drawings on paper. Others recall his paintings and sculptures," dal Poggetto said. "Some drawings have been done over and over again in Michelangelo's typical overlapping of versions."

"They are of great interest," Redig de Campos said. "My opinion is they are certainly by Michelangelo. Of course, I'm not infallible and there are no known ancient documents to support the attribution, and no signature on the walls."

He said the Florentines covered them over with whitewash because to them "they were more or less scrawls. They cared only about accomplished works in the 16th Century."

A wooden crucifix authoritatively identified as a Michelangelo work that had been missing for centuries was found in a convent near Rome in the 1960's. A sculptured head found a few years ago in the ruins of a demolished house in Rome's ancient Trastevere section was said to be the original head of Michelangelo's Pieta Rondanini, now in Milan's Sforza castle.

All trucks may roll Monday

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Two-thirds of the nation's Teamsters truck drivers are due back on the roads under special contract settlements as negotiators hammer away at a new national master contract to end the union's first coast-to-coast strike.

"We are hopeful by Monday we could have all the trucks rolling," said Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr., who met with both sides into today's early morning hours.

The bargaining resumes today at a hotel in this Chicago suburb.

Usery announced Friday night what he called a "significant breakthrough" in the negotiations: a tentative agreement involving two trucking associations that employ about one-third of the striking Teamsters drivers.

Another third of the Teamsters already were covered by interim pacts signed with the union by individual trucking companies.

The settlements, however, did not produce an immediate back to work movement. Many truckers reportedly were waiting for word from their union locals. Pickets remained up at many terminals and truck stops, and authorities reported no increases in truck traffic.

Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons said members covered by Friday's agreement would be told to return to work before ratification votes are taken. But William Mackey, business agent for Local 294 in Albany, N.Y., said, "Nobody's called me to say 'Remove your pickets.' Our pickets are still picketing."

Fitzsimmons made it clear that the strike was still on for those not covered under the agreement. The union, he said, "has not concluded the reason for the strike. ... It's a national strike for those who will not sign our agreement."

About 400,000 Teamster truck drivers and warehousemen struck at 12:01 a.m. Thursday when their national contract expired. The settlements with individual trucking firms began immediately, as did predictions of drastic economic consequences for the nation if the strike went on for long.

Those predictions were partially borne out Friday when auto makers and some other industries began announcing plant shutdowns.

Usery continued meetings with union leaders and negotiators for Trucking Employers Inc., the main bargaining agent for the industry, after tentative agreement was announced between the Teamsters and the Motor Carriers Labor Advisory Council and Irregular Route Carriers, representative for about 250 common carriers who employ more than 130,000 long-haul Teamster drivers.

The two industry groups had been part of the industry bargaining faction along with Trucking Employers, but they broke away to make a separate settlement.

That, said Roy Lane, a Milwaukee Teamsters official, includes a $1.65-an-hour wage increase over 36 months, another $17 a week in health, welfare and pension benefits, and an open-ended cost-of-living allowance, something the Teamsters had fought particularly hard for. The salary increase would amount to $66 a week in the third year for a 40-hour week.

Accord seen as little help for car plants

By The Associated Press Teamster officials familiar with the auto industry say the tentative agreement reached with two truckers' organizations will not do much to lessen the impact of the strike on the car makers.

Steelhaulers and other common carriers supplying the auto plants are not affected by the interim agreement reached late Friday with the Motor Carriers Labor Advisory Council and the Irregular Route Carriers. Some 270,000 Teamsters were still on strike as negotiations continued between the union and Trucking Employers, Inc., representing the major bloc of firms directly affected by the strike.

The strike threatens to paralyze the auto industry within a week.

A huge General Motors plant has shut down as the impact of the strike hit the Midwest, and industry officials said more crippling closings would begin next week if the walkout continues.

But food stores stayed well stocked and such municipal services as garbage hauling kept going with drivers operating under contracts separate from the main over-the-road pacts being negotiated by the Teamsters Union and the trucking industry.

In the first major industrial cutback in the two-day-old strike, GM suspended assembly operations at its GMC Truck and Coach Division plant in Pontiac, Mich., idling 5,600 workers.

GM said another 2,000 workers not engaged in assembly operations would remain on the job there, but that cutbacks at other plants Monday were under consideration.

American Motors, meanwhile, said it would suspend all North American car output and lay off 12,100 factory workers Monday at plants in Milwaukee, Kenosha, Wis., and Brampton, Ont.

A Ford Motor Co. spokesman said the company is trying to get "a good fix" on production plans for next week.

Ford takes campaign to Wisconsin dairy farm

CAMPBELLSPORT, Wis. (AP) — President Ford inspected a dairy herd today as he stumped for Wisconsin farm votes in an all-out effort to put his Republican presidential campaign back on the winning road following Ronald Reagan's surprising victory in North Carolina.

Ford rose early to visit the 400-acre farm of Peter Senn in the rolling countryside near Campbellsport.

Senn, 46, escorted the President on a half-hour tour and explained the workings of automatic milking and feeding equipment. Then, Ford joined Senn and his wife, two daughters and two sons for a hearty farm breakfast of scrambled eggs, pork sausages, bran muffins, milk and doughnuts.

The President's blue suit became soiled during the visit and he changed clothes before leaving the farm for another campaign appearance.

Ford has won five GOP primaries to Reagan's one, and Ford aides say they hope Wisconsin will provide the knock-out punch.

Ford predicted victory in Tuesday's primary, telling campaign workers, "Wisconsin is a very important state. It will get our momentum going again, and have a tremendous impact on the states that follow."

Rep. Morris Udall, hoping for his first Democratic primary triumph, also is in Wisconsin. His chief opponents in Wisconsin, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and Washington Sen. Henry Jackson, spent Friday in upstate New York in search of votes in Tuesday's primary there.

Reagan remained in California, where he headed after abruptly calling off his Wisconsin campaigning last week to concentrate efforts on a big national television speech. The speech drew Ford's fire in Milwaukee on Friday, the first day of his two-day Wisconsin tour.

Using his bluntest language of the campaign, Ford accused Reagan of making misleading statements and "careless, irresponsible work," in his criticism of administration foreign and defense policies.

In Los Angeles, Reagan said he "will stand by everything I said" in his speech, and said Ford, in his rebuttal, was "speaking in a rather loose and unjustified way." He offered to debate Ford.

After a ritual politician's visit to a dairy farm and speeches in Fond du Lac and Green Bay, Ford was to dedicate a hall of fame for the football Packers before returning to Washington late today.

At a Milwaukee news conference, Ford was asked Friday about Reagan's Wednesday night television speech, in which the challenger accused Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger of endangering U.S. security by letting the nation become militarily inferior to the Soviet Union.

"It was a speech that was filled with misleading statements," Ford said. "It was a speech that attributed certain quotes to Secretary Kissinger which were a fabrication and invention."

Reagan quoted Kissinger as saying the United States is in decline and the Soviet Union is "the wave of the future." Kissinger has denied making the statement, while Reagan's source, retired Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, said the quotations Reagan used were accurate.

"We are absolutely unsurpassed in military capability," Ford said, adding: "I have an impeccable record of standing for a strong Defense Department ... and any accusation to the contrary is a lack of knowledge or for political purposes."

Arson is suspected in hotel fire fatal to seven

MIAMI (AP) — Fire swept through a World War I vintage hotel early today, panicking its residents and killing at least seven of them. Firemen said they suspected arson and were looking for someone who "had made threats concerning the hotel."

Thirteen other people, some of them elderly residents forced to leap from the third floor of the hotel, were injured.

Officials said they expected to find more bodies, since not all 32 residents were accounted for.

Witnesses reported hearing a whooshing sound just as the fire began, and others reported hearing an explosion.

Fire Operations Officer Craig Hamilton said a man was taken into custody for questioning, but police later said the man was released.

"We have somebody else we're looking for," said a police spokesman. "We understand he had made threats concerning the hotel."

Four hours after the fire erupted in the three-story Avondale Hotel, one severely burned woman was pulled alive from the second floor.

"She was conscious enough to give me her name," said one fireman, shaking his head.

At the blaze's height, smoke billowed hundreds of feet into the air, covering much of downtown Miami.

Firemen said that when they reached the 60-year-old building, they could see people hanging from windows. Others already were sprawled on the ground. Panic-stricken, they had jumped.

"I know I dispatched at least seven of them with broken arms and legs," said one policeman at the scene.

Once firemen arrived, they used "cherry-picker" rescue gear — baskets mechanically raised from trucks — to get some of the residents down to the street.

As the flames rose, one man outside screamed: "My family's in there, my family's in there." Bystanders held him back and kept him from rushing inside.

The blaze, reported shortly before 1 a.m. EST, spread quickly to the adjacent Saragossa Hotel, an unoccupied three-story building at least a half century old. A third small hotel also was damaged but its tenants were evacuated without injury, firemen said.

"We have a suspect in custody," said Fire Operations Officer Craig Hamilton. "Somebody caught him in the area. He's being questioned by our arson investigators."

"These were not flop-houses," said Hamilton. "They were old as hell. But they had been kept up. They were the kind with gingerbread fronts, from the teens and '20s."

Noel Barbosa, a frequent visitor to the Avondale, said he arrived as the fire broke out. "It started in the front apartment on the second floor," he said in Spanish.

"I rushed into the hotel and there was panic. I could hear the people screaming upstairs. I wanted to try to save them, but I couldn't because of the flames."

He said he was certain some people were trapped on the third floor.

Nixon sons-in-law deny they thought him demented

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon's two sons-in-law vehemently deny that they thought the former president was mentally unstable or would take his own life shortly before he resigned.

Edward Cox and David Eisenhower took issue with the way they and Nixon are portrayed in a new book on Nixon's last days as president by reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, who won a Pulitzer Prize for the Washington Post with their reporting of the Watergate scandal.

In separate statements, both Cox and Eisenhower denied that they suggested Nixon might take his own life. Cox also denied saying in a telephone conversation that Nixon was giving speeches at night to presidential portraits on the White House walls.

Eisenhower denied that he thought Nixon was demented, that Nixon used or misrepresented his family during the affair and that Nixon's marriage was an unhappy one.

Eisenhower, a third-year law student here who is married to Nixon's younger daughter Julie, said, "I reject categorically the implication I saw or thought anything suggesting President Nixon was demented in the closing days of his administration."

"Rumors of his instability were essentially press-generated," Eisenhower added. "As I told Mr. Woodward, I saw the Nixons too frequently to take the rumors seriously. ... I never feared President Nixon would commit suicide. ... I observed nothing which remotely indicated he contemplated suicide. I shared a widespread concern for his health."

In their book "The Final Days," Woodward and Bernstein say, "For months, David had been 'waiting for Mr. Nixon to go bananas,' as he sometimes phrased it. David thought the president might commit suicide. David seemed convinced Nixon would never leave the White House alive."

Eisenhower also said he did not intend to confirm other parts of the book simply because he had not mentioned them in his statement.

In his first public statement since the book excerpts began appearing last month, Cox disputed its version of a telephone conversation he had with Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., shortly before Nixon resigned in August 1974.

"At no time in the course of that conversation or any other conversation at any time did I make any of the notorious statements, including particularly the absurd accusation that President Nixon was talking to pictures in the halls of the White House, which recent broadcasts have ascribed to the conversation," said Cox, who is married to Nixon's elder daughter Tricia.

"Furthermore, I know of no basis in fact to support in any manner the descriptions of President Nixon and his family alleged to have been made in the conversation," Cox added.

Michael Thomas of Byron escaped injury when his auto collided head-on with a truck driven by Harvey McCoy of Byron and spun into the ditch on River Road at 1 p.m. Friday. Thomas was northbound on River Road and had passed two vehicles when his car skidded into the McCoy truck.

The Thomas vehicle incurred $600 in damages while the McCoy truck sustained $2,000 in damages. Thomas was arrested for failure to reduce speed and improper lane usage.

Important committee

By JOHN F. McMANUS
BELMONT, Mass.—The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee (SISS) is under attack. Created by Congress twenty-four years ago for the purpose of informing the American people about domestic subversion, the subcommittee faces extinction as part of a concerted drive to abolish all anti-Communist watchdog agencies.

In recent years, the axe has fallen on the Internal Security Division of the Justice Department, the Subversive Activities Control Board, and the House Committee on Un-American Activities (as well as its successor, the House Internal Security Committee). During this same period, many anti-Communist efforts of the FBI and CIA have also been curtailed. In addition, state and local police intelligence units are being disbanded (some by federal court order) at an alarming rate. One might suppose that our nation no longer had any internal enemies.

According to its opponents, SISS is valueless because it does not have a good legislative record. Some notoriously free-spending Senators even claim that their opposition to SISS is based on the need for government to economize. Both arguments are patently ridiculous. The subcommittee's primary responsibility has never been to recommend or sponsor legislation. Rather, its work has been investigative in nature, and through the years it has provided invaluable information on matters of internal Communist subversion, effects of drug addiction on national security, and spreading acts of terrorism within our borders.

To kill the subcommittee by cutting off its less than $300,000 annual budget is no economy move. It is, instead, part of a continuing drive to make the United States totally defenseless against those seeking to overthrow our constitutional republic.

During 1975 SISS investigated the widespread campaign against police intelligence units across our nation. Its hearings, issued on Jan. 13, 1976, revealed that the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration had been funding a Communist group in Chicago called the Alliance To End Repression (AER) begun in 1971, the AER grew out of a maze of formally cited Communist fronts, including the National Committee Against Repressive Legislation, whose main purpose was to destroy anti-subversive investigatory agencies of the government. The AER came into being largely through the efforts of Richard L. Criley, who has been identified under oath as a member of the Communist Party of Illinois.

Part of the testimony in these SISS hearings came from Chicago Police Officer David Cushing, who told the investigators that, without the federal LEAA funding, the AER "would not have been financially able to continue." So here we have federal tax dollars (over $90,000 in 1973-74) financing a Communist operation whose main purposes include the harassment of local police and the destruction of the anti-subversive agencies of government. And when SISS publishes this startling information, Senators Hatfield (R-Ore.), Abourezk (D-S.D.), and others call for an end to SISS!

Over the past six years, SISS has published well over one hundred valuable reports, studies, and hearings on vital issues. There is no question that its modest cost to the taxpayers is well justified. In fact, its efforts and activities ought to be increased in these perilous times.

We suggest that our Senators focus their attention on federal agencies that finance Communists—like the LEAA—and leave the SISS alone.

Trials of Patty

The trials and tribulations of poor little rich girl Patricia Hearst are far from over. Convicted of participating in the robbery of a bank in San Francisco, she now faces charges of shooting up a sporting goods store in Los Angeles.

And having failed to win an acquittal for their client with the defense that she was the unwilling victim of brainwashing and manipulation by her captors, the Symbionese Liberation Army, her legal counsel are now apparently contemplating a new tactic.

"I don't understand how any jury could be empaneled in Los Angeles that did not know of her verdict in San Francisco," says attorney Albert Johnson. "And a simple awareness of that verdict would preclude serving. I don't see how she could be tried in any place in the foreseeable future."

Miss Hearst's attorney thus seem determined not only to carry this question of what is a fair trial and what is not a fair trial to an unprecedented extreme but to abuse the great amount of sympathy many people still feel for the unfortunate young woman.

That sympathy was shared even by Miss Hearst's San Francisco jurors who, according to statements by a number of them, desperately wanted to find some way to acquit her but were simply overwhelmed by the facts presented by the prosecution.

In suggesting that 12 similarly open-minded men and women cannot now be empaneled in Los Angeles, Johnson is saying what amounts to this—that only deaf, dumb, blind or illiterate people or sufferers from amnesia are qualified to serve on juries. Either that or he is introducing the novel theory that no one can be tried fairly for a second offense if convicted of a first.

It is an interesting argument, but one which we do not think even Mr. Johnson believes will be entertained very far by the court.

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is emphatically no doubt that energy production in the United States and the world must be of major concern to this country. Otherwise the financial instability of many developing nations and economic dislocations in the United States will bring repeated crises.

But there's another approach to these problems—largely ignored—which could have as much impact on stability as increased and nuclear energy output. This is the development of vast underexploited agricultural areas of the world—especially in the tropics—and the planting of overlooked or underutilized crops. With intensified research, these offer the promise of becoming "new" miracle foods.

For the lack of food, it is now clear, has become more of a drag on many of the world's poorer countries than petroleum costs. Food prices have skyrocketed. Increasing millions go hungry. The costs bankrupt national budgets.

Increased development of agriculture would not only benefit for-

Definitive 'dial-ogue'

Hardly a day passes without the news that yet another chemical or food additive has been put on the banned or suspect list as a threat to health. Rarely does the ordinary person have the chance to talk to an expert and pin him down and ask him just what the story is.

Anybody with a question about food will be able to do just that, however, on April 7 and 8. On those two days, 28 university and government scientists will participate in a national "Food Day Dial-ogue"—a coast-to-coast toll-free telephone setup by which they will answer questions from consumers not only about chemicals and additive but nutrition, agricultural production and world hunger.

Sponsor of the event is the Council for Agricultural Science and Technology (CAST), a nonprofit organization of 17 scientific societies with a membership of some 25,000 scientists, most university faculty members. "Dial-ogue" has also been partially funded by a grant from the National Agricultural Chemicals Assn.

"We're aware of the concern in our population over food safety and nutrition," says CAST executive secretary Dr. Charles Black. "We have independent scientists who have a great deal of knowledge and experience in all areas of concern. Each member of this panel is looking forward to the opportunity to talk with the public. We hope as many people as possible will take advantage of the program."

The scientists will be taking calls at the Quality Inn-Capitol Hill in Washington, D.C. The numbers in that city are 347-5074 and 347-5075. Anywhere else in the country, the toll-free number is 800-424-9510. The lines will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. EST each day.

Those who are unable to reach the panel by phone can mail questions to CAST, Department of Agronomy, Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa 50010.

Things Dixon Talked About

25 YEARS AGO

A record attendance is expected for this year's Better Home Show at the Dixon Armory, April 12, 13, and 14, to view the latest in items for the home. Twenty-eight merchants have banded together for the show and 44 displays booths will be set up for equipment displays. Entertainers will perform each night at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. There will be a different set of entertainers each evening.

It was a great night for the Irish and for those not so Irish when they attended the "Irish Minstrels" at the Dixon High School Auditorium last evening. Under the sponsorship of the Knights of Columbus, the show which has a cast of 75 local people will again be staged at 8 o'clock tonight at the high school.

50 YEARS AGO

Any person in the city wishing to hire a boy to shovel snow from sidewalks can secure one by phoning the "Y". The "Y" has supplied a large number of boys for this work so far and hopes to fill all orders.

World must develop new food sources

eign lands. Historically, American markets are the more prosperous the greater the agricultural and industrial progress of the foreign nations concerned.

American farmers would not be hurt. For there is little chance, however much this country pours into helping other countries, that the world will run into repeated surpluses, population forecasts being what they are.

Moreover, the new research and development can help insure that at some time in the future, one disease or another will not wipe out major U.S. output—at least for long. As scientists working with the National Academy of Sciences point out, "reliance on a small number of plants carries great risk, for monocultures are extremely vulnerable to catastrophic failure brought about by disease or variations in climate."

The world and the United States have gradually centered production on 20 major crops not suitable for all climates. This means that important world areas, particularly in the tropics, are not offering the yields necessary to meet the growing populations.

Though man has used some 3,000 plant species for food, today one out of 10 is either extinct or in imminent danger of extinction. Some 20,000 species now need protection. Scientists say that "only by careful preservation will the genetic diversity and healthy stock needed for developing new food crops be assured. Potential breeding stocks will otherwise become extinct."

Paradoxically, the potential of many tropical crops has never been scientifically explored. A striking case, a National Academy of Sciences group reports, is quinoa—one of the most-productive sources of plant protein. It grows high in the Andes, where few other crops can survive. The Spanish introduced wheat and barley and focused agricultural research only on those crops, which eventually displaced quinoa. Despite its intrinsic nutritive and economic value and the fact that protein deficiency is a serious problem in its native region, the agronomy of quinoa has advanced little in the past four centuries."

There's a wild Australian grass which yields nutritious grain with just one deep watering—important for regions with sporadic rainfall.

A neglected Central American grain has extremely high levels of protein and the essential amino acid, lysine.

A grain-producing grasslike plant that grows in seawater could open new potentials for sea farming.

A Peruvian parsnip, the root of which is sometimes grown instead of potato at half the cost, offers promise for tropical highlands worldwide.

Some types of the high-yielding taro grow upland, others in waterlogged otherwise unproductive swampy soils, offering worldwide tropical potential.

Then there's a large melonlike vegetable which yields three crops a year and is easy to grow. The fruit can be kept as long as a year without refrigeration.

Shady gifts vs. fuzzy thinking

By DON OAKLEY

It wasn't the news media that brought about the downfall of Richard M. Nixon. It was the news media plus the machinations of a "military-intelligence-industrial complex" that is dedicated to turning America into a fascist state.

Or so contends Marcus G. Raskin, a director of a Washington, D.C., think tank, the Institute for Policy Studies, one-time adviser to congressmen, member of President Kennedy's national security staff and co-defendant with Dr. Benjamin Spock and two other anti-Vietnam war activists in that famous 1968 trial for encouraging young men to avoid the draft.

It was because Nixon attempted to leash the CIA and FBI and undercut the political power of the corporate "barons" that he was dumped, says Raskin in an interview in the National Observer. The furor over Watergate, he says, came as a complete surprise and shock to Nixon because he hadn't done anything that other presidents before him hadn't done in the way of spying or burglary or bribery or whatever.

Adherents of the conspiracy school of history will probably nod their heads in agreement with Raskin's theory. In doing so, however, they will have to ignore at least one rather salient fact about Watergate—that and that is that so many people should have spent so much money to re-elect a man who was trying to centralize power in the White House at the expense of their alleged power.

The fall-out from this aspect of Watergate continues to rain down.

Just the other day industrialist Armand Hammer, chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp., was fined $3,000 and placed on one year's probation by a U.S. District Court judge in Los Angeles for making and concealing an illegal $54,000 contribution to Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign. The fine was the maximum allowed by law.

At about the same time as Hammer was hearing his sentence, the Civil Aeronautics Board slapped Braniff International Airways with a record $300,000 fine for juggling its books to hide a similar illegal contribution to the Nixon campaign.

Hammer and Braniff have thus joined a lengthy list of other individuals and companies charged with or convicted of the same offense, including such fair-sized corporate "barons" as Gulf Oil and Ashland Oil.

All these contributions, it should be remembered, were made after Nixon had already been in office for nearly four years and his intentions certainly should have been clear. But maybe he made the power brokers an offer they couldn't refuse. Or maybe they are simply too clever for our understanding.

Or maybe Raskin should go back to the tank and do some more thinking.

Union Carbide takes 7,000 jobs from N.Y.

NEW YORK (LENS)—New York City is losing its appeal as a headquarters for American corporations. Union Carbide, the country's second largest chemical company, which built a 50-story tower with 1.1-million square feet of space on Park Avenue in 1960, is the latest in a long line of major firms to decide to leave. It announced that it would move in stages over the next three or four years to Connecticut, where its 3,500 employees will have the benefit of lower taxes and suburban living.

Union Carbide's decision was a major blow to Gov. Hugh Carey and Mayor Abe Beame, who sought to persuade the company to remain at least until they had won legislative approval of a series of proposed tax reforms and incentives for business. But company officials, who had undertaken a thorough analysis of costs, taxes and employee attitudes, had made up their minds. The major factor, they pointed out, was an intangible one—the difficulty of persuading administrative and professional people to work in the city.

Over the past six or seven years the city has seen an increasing exodus of corporate headquarters. It once contained 140 of Fortune's roster of the largest 500 industrial companies and 39 of the top 100. Now it has 95 of the first 500 and only 23 of the first 100. Most of its losses, as in the Union Carbide case, have been to neighboring suburbs or towns in the adjoining state of New Jersey and Connecticut, where over three-quarters of the presiding executives, most of whom come from small towns or cities, make their homes. But some are going farther afield, closer to their markets or supplies.

The exodus has not only meant a rising loss in tax revenues from corporations and their employees but less work for the smaller companies that provide goods and services.

According to the city's Economic Development Administration, the departure of Union Carbide may cost the jobs of at least 3,500 people in addition to those who will be going with the company to Connecticut.

The real fear of city officials is that the exodus will spread. New York used to give prestige to growing corporations, which liked to be near to its financial communications and cultural advantages. It is still a corporate service center, with more major law firms, auditors, advertising agencies, managerial consultants and banks than anywhere else. But it no longer has the near monopoly it once enjoyed.

New York's law firms have had to pay very high salaries to lure new graduates, and other firms seeking professional personnel report that their salary costs are rising compared with those in other cities. There seems to be no way to right things. The cost of living—and local taxes—are exceedingly high in New York while the inadequacies of its schools and housing are manifest.

A sizeable group of major firms is inevitably tied to the city. The big communications complexes—CBS, NBC, the New York Times and the Daily News—have no thoughts of deserting Manhattan, although most have moved, or are thinking of moving, their production plants to more congenial locations. Similarly, a number of the large department store chains are likely to maintain their headquarters in New York because of the city's association with fashion. International companies are also entrenched. But elsewhere the exodus will go on.

Little done to improve TV audio

By STEPHEN FORD
NEW YORK — (NEA) — While the entertainment industry continues to astonish the public with its technological miracles, such as videodiscs, remote control turntables and 3-D laser beams that go bump in the night — the primeval state of television's audio transmission leads to suspect TV sound engineers would be befuddled by gravity.

If there is ever need for rapid improvement in any facet of television, programming aside obviously, it is in the flat, stale sound emitted from that insult called your TV speaker. Ask anyone who's settled down before the video cyclops for a weekend Midnight Special and wished afterward they had turned in early.

TV audio engineers are the first to admit the sound from most TVs is little better than that of a $2.98 transistor radio but claim the fault lies mainly with Ma Bell, who beams most TV audio transmissions.

Audio broadcasting equipment used today was originally developed 40 years ago and has never been updated. Ma Bell, the monopolistic behemoth that can beam conversations from the Moon to Washington D.C., says it won't improve sound transmissions — until — TV receivers are equipped with the more sophisticated apparatus necessary for good sound reception. TV manufacturers say they won't do so unless Ma Bell proves she can deliver better audio: It's Catch 22 but unfortunately it's the consumer that suffers for their silliness.

The only alternative right now is for quality-conscious local TV stations to arrange simultaneous broadcasts with nearby radio stations so the sound portion comes over the superior radio receiver.

This two-step method, while effective, is a step backward considering there is absolutely no reason TV can't improve its sound.

Celebrating their 25th anniversary, the legendary jazz quartet of Dave Brubeck, Paul Desmond, Eugene Wright and Joe Morello has enjoyed SRO concerts throughout their 22-date tour of the United States.

Discussing their first personal tour in almost a decade, mentor Brubeck explained from his suburban Connecticut home, "We had only planned to do one concert in Princeton to commemorate our 25th anniversary. But after other promoters across the country who had booked us years ago heard of our onenighter, demands for a tour started pouring in. We eventually had to cut it when offers to tour Japan and England came in." Salt and pepper temples and a snowy white cascade of hair over his collar revealing the years, Brubeck appears a convincing philosopher-musician.

"If you want to communicate as a musician, you've got to have music the public will listen to. You have to eat. But you also have to write music that will please yourself. Some musicians feel writing music the public wants is a total compromise, as if all you're worried about is eating. But creativity," he adds, "is when the musician can appeal to the public and satisfy himself, too."

"The talented artist creates an environment for his survival, he cultivates an audience and works at his art and learns to survive in a world that won't subsidize him otherwise," he states.

Two years ago, Brubeck infuriated the patriots among his fans when he arranged the Star Spangled Banner to be played drastically out of tune. An avid critic of the military and what he views as a growing infringement on Americans' civil rights, Brubeck is still politically active.

"My intention with the out of tune arrangement was to say 'Hey! Wake up everybody, we're going the wrong way!' It's the role of any artist to make a commitment when leadership begins failing its people."

"We survived the McCarthy era and Watergate when we were in danger of losing our rights. But we still are. We've got to keep fighting everyday for them," he concludes.

The Doctor Says:

Cataract procedure promising

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am going to have a cataract operation and my doctor said he can put in some permanent contact lenses because my eyes are healthy. He said they sew them in and they are permanent. I have talked to a lot of people who have had this done and they are happy because they don't have to wear any other glasses and they don't have to take them out.

What could you tell me about this or can I have the other operation and put contact lenses on and wear other glasses besides the contact lenses? Are these permanent glasses that the doctor wants to put inside my eyes approved? I would sure hate to lose my eyesight. I am 69 years old and never wore glasses when I was young.

DEAR READER — I wish I could give you a definite answer. Certainly implanting an artificial lens inside the eye is a very promising technique. Eventually I would guess that it will become the standard procedure in all healthy eyes, but I don't think we are at that stage yet. There are a number of eye specialists in the country who are very enthusiastic about this procedure and they have reason to be.

Let's start at the beginning, a cataract is an opacification of the lens in the eye. All of the light that enables you to see must pass through the lens. The cataract operation simply removes that opaque, clouded lens.

Before contact lenses were popular, individuals who had cataracts removed wore very thick lenses that magnified images 25 to 30 times their normal size. This greatly distorted the field of vision.

The successful development of contact lenses has been a great benefit. The amount of magnification and distortion by the contact lens resting on the outside of the eyeball after the cataracts have been removed is minimal.

Now we have implants of a new lens into the eye itself.

Since these are internal they require none of the usual care attended to contact lenses. The amount of magnification and distortion with such lenses is really minimal.

If there is other disease inside the eye then the use of an implant may not improve vision nor will an external contact lens or ordinary glasses. At least the amount of improvement will be limited by the degree of other disease in the eye.

Some specialists who have been implanting lenses have seven to eight years experience now and to date there have been no serious complications. The problem is, in advising people who may read this column, that there is no experience over a longer period of time. How will these lenses work in 10 or 15 years? That would be important in a young person.

'Tough-guy' fathers damage young psyches

Dear Ann: Will you please say a word to "tough-guy" fathers? Last night I attended a school program. On the way in to the building, a little boy, running to catch up with his parents, slipped and fell. He didn't scream or cry, just ran to his parents sobbing a little and showed them the bruised knees. His father shook him by the shoulder and said, "No crying or I'll give you something to cry about."

Some men think it's a sign of weakness to show sympathy. Actually the opposite is true. I don't mean a father should be super-goofy, but letting a child know you care can do wonders.—Love My Kids

Dear Love: So can letting a child cry, if he wants to. Those "tough-guy" papas who think tears are a sign of weakness can do a lot of damage to a young psyche.

One reason more men suffer from ulcers than women is because they are ashamed to cry, so they hold in the anxiety and frustration and it pops out in the form of stomach trouble.

Dear Ann Landers: I have read your column for many years and have disagreed with you on occasion, but your answer to the woman whose husband urinated outdoors was the dumbest thing I have ever seen you print.

You called the man "cuckoo." I can't understand how a woman with your knowledge of human nature can be so ignorant about such a common practice.

All boys and men urinate outdoors—regardless of whether or not they have a bathroom on the first floor. When I come home at night, I never wait till I get inside, I just go in the yard. Often, during the night I'll step outside the back door rather than disturb the household by flushing the commode.

I'll bet you receive thousands of letters like mine.—Another "Cuckoo"

Dear Coo: I hope not, but thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 14-year-old girl who has been wearing glasses since I was five. Last week I got contact lenses. You can't imagine how thrilled I was to be rid of my glasses.

I was really hurt when four out of five of my best friends said they like me better with my glasses. They say I just don't look like myself without them. Now I don't know what to do. Any suggestions?—A Lot Of Trouble For Nothing?

Dear Trouble: Your friends are probably so accustomed to seeing you in glasses that the difference is a bit of a shock. Keep the glasses off for a few weeks, then decide. Maybe you DO look better in glasses, but the decision should be yours.

Dear Ann Landers: In a column you wrote several weeks ago, you quoted St. Paul as having said, "It is not good for a man to be alone." I have heard of robbing Peter to pay Paul, but you, Ann Landers, are robbing God. The statement you attributed to Paul was His—from the Book of Genesis 2:18.

You get so many things right, I hope you won't mind this correction.—A Pastor Who Quotes You Often.

Dear Pastor: Not at all. In fact, dozens of others caught the mistake. It's flattering to know so many well-versed Bible scholars read this column.

Switch vegetables for a varied dish

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A well-seasoned macaroni salad takes on new flavor by varying the fresh vegetables you put in it. In place of celery and green pepper, add equal amounts of cucumber and radish or tomatoes and cooked green beans to your macaroni. Cooked peas and pimiento also offer another easy taste change. Some people like a mayonnaise dressing. Others use sour cream or bottled French dressing. Here's a recipe to switch about to make it seem a different dish every time. When taking a macaroni vegetable salad on a picnic, chill it well first and keep it cold until time to eat. Pack it in a covered container and store in a cooler or carry the salad in a chilled widemouth vacuum jug. Between snacking or meals at picnic time always keep a salad with mayonnaise, egg or dairy products thoroughly chilled for safer eating.

MACARONI VEGETABLE SALAD

2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
1/2 cup each: diced celery, diced green pepper
1/2 cup shredded carrot
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2-3rds cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon each: pepper, dry mustard
Gradually add macaroni and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain again.

Combine macaroni with remaining ingredients; toss lightly and chill. For a picnic turn into chilled wide-mouth vacuum jug. At home, serve on crisp lettuce leaves, garnished with additional shredded carrot, as desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

QUICK NOODLE BAKE

8 ounces wide egg noodles (about 4 cups)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
1 cup drained chopped sweet mixed pickles
3 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
Gradually add noodles and salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil.

Cool uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Combine noodles with pickles, tomato sauce and seasonings in lightly greased one and one-half quart casserole; top generously with cheese. Bake, covered, in 375-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes or until sauce is bubbling. Serve with grilled hamburgers or frankfurters, as desired. Makes 4 servings. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Program teaches dads to nurture tots

Jim Price, a tall, wholesome-looking blue-eyed young man was moving among the blocks, miniature racing cars and toy trains of the playground watching the kindergarten-age boys and girls working with their fathers. The 29-year-old Price and his unique father-child program represent a new attitude towards parenting and child care which psychologist Henry Biller has called "father power."

Men are important in the development of children. Their interaction with their sons and daughters should not wait until the children are old enough to fish or play baseball. As children are forming a sexual identity, they need male and female models with which to compare and contrast themselves. Girls need important women in their lives to learn that being female is desirable and boys need important men to enhance their sense of worth. As Jim Price puts it, "Young children need to know in their bones that they are either male or female."

Knowing in his bones who he was, a man who loved teaching, Jim Price enrolled in the master's degree program at the Erikson Institute for Early Education, one of the outstanding graduate school training child care professionals. Jim was one of six men in the class of 30. He initiated the fatherchild group after becoming a master teacher at the Virginia Frank Child Development Center in Chicago.

If a family has no father available, Jim tries to get a grandfather, uncle or the mother's boyfriend, a male figure who plays an important part in the child's life. The groups of fathers and children meet for five evening sessions every other week. On alternate weeks the fathers (or male figures) meet with Jim to discuss problems, to lessen their sense of isolation and increase their confidence and know-how in the task of child rearing.

"Children unequivocally love this program," says Jim getting the juice and cookies ready. "It's amazing how important it is to a child to have an evening out alone with father, grandfather or mother's boyfriend." As I watched the fathers complimenting their children on paintings, helping them to build block towers, laughing at their antics with puppets, I was impressed by the warmth and concern they displayed.

As Jim stopped to talk with the different fathers and children, offering support and guidance, he was careful not to impose his values. Jim believes there are many good ways to be a parent. There is no ideal way for mothers and fathers to share the parenting job. The most important thing is that both be involved in ways that are acceptable to them.

But Jim's very presence, a confident masculine figure amid the kindergartners, seems to say to the fathers and children: Men can care about young boys and girls. Men can play. Men can pour juice. Men can nurture children.

So pass the cookies, daddy. With it you are passing on to your children a sense of their own identity, a sense that they are loved by you.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE G-448: Dr. Hilton Sutton recently conducted a four-day series of lectures dealing with Communist China and Russia, and showing how the Bible foretells their downfall. He also presented a movie, extricated from Russia a couple of years ago, and illustrating the phenomenal military build-up of the air, tank and artillery power Russia has in the Middle East.

"This movie is now declassified so the Pentagon released it to me for tonight's program," he said.

Mrs. Crane and I had been invited by mutual friends to drive over to Indianapolis from our summer home to see the movie.

Dr. Sutton held the crowd spellbound for at least 90 minutes with his interpretation of Ezekiel's prophecy about the downfall of the military giant north of Israel.

"Russia tries to exceed America in military power, such as nuclear submarines, tanks, bombing planes, etc.," Dr. Sutton explained.

"But the more she strains to convince the rest of the world on her military supremacy, the more she reveals her secret inferiority complex."

"For Russia lacks the morale that makes America stronger, even if we should not equal Russia's military armaments entirely."

"And God's promise to Abraham over 3,000 years ago will be the greatest protection to Israel."

"For God fulfills His promises and Ezekiel predicts that in a single day, the entire night of Communism will be demolished!"

Bible Prophecy
All intelligent Americans should relish Dr. Sutton's incisive analysis of Bible prophecy, regardless of whether some may be Doubting Thomases.

For he is unusually well informed on our own and Communist armaments and a consummate orator with a keen sense of humor.

Appropos of the latter, he mentioned a grandmother in Tulsa who lived with a spinster daughter.

But Grandma wished to visit her grandchildren in a distant city, so she packed her suitcase and tucked her Bible in her handbag.

Her Tulsa daughter urged her to take an airplane, for then she'd be at her destination within an hour.

Grandma, however, preferred to ride on the bus, and occupied a window seat, while a college man sat down next to her.

Soon she took out her Bible and started reading.

"Do you believe everything the Bible says?" challenged her seat mate.

"Yes, I do," Grandma firmly replied.

"Even that fish story about Jonah being swallowed by a whale?" taunted the young man.

"Indeed, I do," Grandma affirmed.

"Well, how can you be sure Jonah was in that whale?" Grandma didn't hesitate but immediately replied:

"Well, when I get to Heaven, I'll ask him!"

"Humph," snorted the young man derisively, "but suppose Jonah isn't there?"

"Well," pertly replied Grandma, "then you can ask him!"

Preachers, learn to mix such wholesome humor with your sermons and there will be fewer empty pews.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Melott, Ind. 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

Spring can be depressing

CHICAGO (AP) — Spring is when many a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, as the saying goes.

But for others it is a time when feelings of loneliness and depression are worse than at any other time of year.

Dr. Francois Alouf, a Northwestern University medical school psychiatrist, says spring fever is for real, but adds that by no means does it affect everyone the same way.

And, he advised in an interview, those who feel like tip-toeing through the tulips with the arrival of spring should lay off those who are depressed by the season.

Spring fever probably has a biological origin, he said, pointing out that human biological clocks are well recognized. These could be related to seasons as well as to time of day, he said.

"Obviously spring fever is not something that starts on March 21st," Alouf said, but it occurs as the climate changes.

Whether it is a good experience or a bad experience depends upon the associations a person has with the season, he said.

"Basically it has a positive connotation," he said. "People are energetic, they want to be out, want to be reborn; they welcome the change from the long winter."

Others, though, "experience spring fever as a downer," especially if they are lonely or are involved in a relationship that is not working out well, he said.

The psychiatrist said that some of his patients during treatment have accentuated feelings of loneliness or depression during spring, just as others suffer from "Christmas blues."

Other patients at this time want to get out of therapy because there are other things they want to do.

And while spring fever sexes up some people, it diminishes the sex drive of others, especially if they are alone or separated from loved ones, he said.

"You need to be very attuned and very sensitive to the fact that what spring may be for you it is not for others," the psychiatrist said.

There are likewise extremes of reactions to work, with some people being more energetic and others finding it more difficult to buckle down, Alouf said.

To cope with spring fever, he recommends that people adjust their reactions to their own needs and not to the standards of others.

Parents should try to accept the rowdiness of children in springtime when they can shed their winter clothes and go outdoors, he said, noting that some parents are upset by such behavior because it makes them feel they are growing old and they envy their children's vigor.

For Sunday, April 4, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's a day when you'll feel restless unless you have a lot to do, so don't be afraid to take on two or three projects.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't feel you're being selfish today if you're thinking of personal gain. Some days you have to get the best of the bargain!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) When you make the scene today, things should really start happening. Your bubbling personality pumps pep into proceedings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone you've known for a long time would deeply appreciate hearing from you today. If you can't visit, at least call her.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You won't be content today with people who think narrowly. Pal around with those who have a broad perspective. You'll be much happier.

VIRGO Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to be a shade or two better than the competition today. If you win, accept your laurels graciously.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you have faith in yourself today, it'll be obvious to others and will serve as an inspiration to those of fainter heart.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You can change things today. Even obstacles that seem insurmountable will fall if you really set your mind to overcoming them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Footloose and fancy-free though you usually are, you work much better today when teamed with one whom you respect.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) Though others may be looking for a cozy spot in the shade to take it easy today, you won't be happy if you're idle.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you will be in a very gregarious mood. If you can't be near the folks you love, then love the folks you're near.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Family-oriented pleasures are dear to your heart today. It's fine to have friends around, but keep the action on the home court.

April 4, 1976

Frequent movement is in the offing for you this coming year. Your jaunts may not be long, but they will be keyed both to pleasure and profit.

Love is skin-deep. Give Blood.

Agnew refuses to release data

CROFTON, Md. (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has rejected requests that he make public the transcripts of plea bargaining sessions that led to his removal from office.

"Very recently, I read the transcripts at the Federal Judicial Center in Washington. The transcripts contain no information which is not already known and which has not been fully discussed by the news media," Agnew told the Associated Press Friday.

U.S. Dist. Judge Walter E. Hoffman had said some months ago, when requests for the plea bargaining transcripts were first made by the news media, that he considered himself bound by an agreement not to release the information without the consent of both the government and Agnew.

Government prosecutors said they had no objection, but Agnew noted at the time that he had not even seen the transcripts and wasn't going to make any decision until he knew what was in them.

"Inasmuch as I was not personally present during the conversations, I naturally wanted to see what was said before consenting to the release," Agnew said.

"Therefore, I agreed to pay one-half the costs of having the reporter's notes transcribed so that I could make a determination of whether any useful purpose would be served by acceding to the news media request. "I can see no useful purpose in consenting to the release of the transcripts at this time," Agnew said.

The former vice president said he plans to write his memoirs in two or three years "which will go deeply into the entire matter. At the time the memoirs are published, I will remove my objection to the release of the transcripts so they can become a part of the total documentation of the matter," he said.

Accused in thefts

A Washington, Ill., man was arrested Friday on charges stemming from burglaries in Dixon, Sterling and Washington, and in Ogle, Whiteside and Peoria Counties.

Police from all the areas involved participated in a search of the residence of Robert Wolford, 33, after an officer from the Sterling Police Department obtained a search warrant.

The theft in Dixon occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gerlach, 1108 Eustace Drive. Their residence was broken into in December 1974. Jewelry and antiques were stolen.

Dixon Police found some of the stolen items at the Wolford residence. Officers from the other agencies also found items from similar burglaries. Wolford is being held in jail by the Washington Police Department.

Wolford will be charged in Ogle County.

Recovered in the execution of the search warrant were a mink cape, a mink bolero, a cashmere sweater, a suitcase and a typewriter stolen from the Lester Sanderson residence in Oregon, plus an antique bowl and pitcher from the Charles Mongan home, Rt. 2, Oregon.

The Sanderson and Mongan homes were burglarized in September of 1974.

First St. Police said she was westbound on Palmyra Avenue when her vehicle struck the Danials car, which was parked at 915 Palmyra Ave. Rhoads told police that her auto's hood partially flew up and she was attempting to pull off the road to fasten it when the accident occurred.

$100,000 lottery prize to dispatcher

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago cab company radio dispatcher who buys about 10 lottery tickets a week has won the $100,000 grand prize in the Illinois State Lottery Super Shot game.

Alexander Palmer, 42, of Chicago said after the Friday night drawing that he had a feeling he would win. He said he would use the money to take a vacation and visit his mother in Mississippi. He also said he would build a house. Palmer has seven children, two of them married.

Last night's lottery victory was not the first for Palmer, who has won cash prizes up to $150 more than a dozen times.

The $25,000 dollar winner was Marian Sopczynski, 56, also of Chicago. An employee of Western Electric for 35 years, Mrs. Sopczynski said her job was being phased out and that as a result of her prize she will take early retirement. She said she would do all of the things she never had a chance to do, including cooking and shopping.

The $2,500 winners were Diane M. Toepfer of Lena, Kathleen Reilly of Bridgeton, Mo., and Frank Mittl of Chicago.

The winning numbers in the Friday night drawing were:

Southbound traffic will be moved west on Lincoln Avenue, to Ninth Street, south to First Avenue and east to U.S. 51. Signs will be posted to aid motorists. ## Robert Fischer retires as Illinois State Trooper

State Trooper Robert R. Fischer officially retired from the Illinois State Police on April 1. He spent his 26-year career with District One, Sterling.

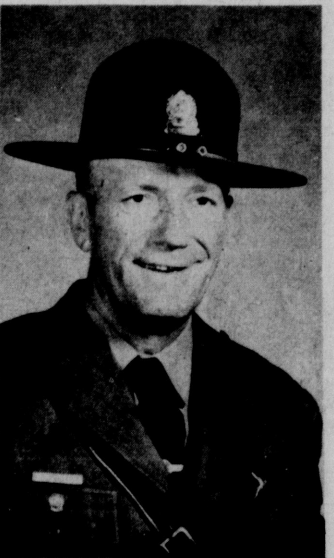

Trooper Fischer and his wife, Ella, reside in Dixon. They have two sons, Terry, 26, of Dixon, and Robert Jr., 30, of Bondville. They have one granddaughter.

Trooper Fischer was appointed to the Illinois State Police on January 9, 1950. From 1970 to 1972 he was in charge of the truck safety lanes for District One. In 1972 he was appointed Training Officer. He served in this capacity until 1974.

Thinking back over his career as a policeman, Trooper Fischer felt the most difficult and saddest job he ever performed was handling a train-truck collision in which five young school boys and the truck driver were killed at a crossing in Eldena. It was especially said for him since he knew many of the parents of the accident victims.

He feels the most gratifying phase of his career was being an instructor in first aid. "Teaching people how to save lives has got to be gratifying," according to Fischer, "as the preservation of lives is of primary concern to a policeman."

As a state trooper he has seen law enforcement become specialized with more time being spent training policemen, improved equipment and, of course, the pay scale is considerably better now than it was 26 years ago. Prior to becoming a state trooper Bob was employed by Standard Dairy of Dixon. He spent three years in the Army in the European theater. He was discharged with the rank of sergeant.

Retired Trooper Fischer will be employed as chief of security of Woodhaven Lakes Resort near Amboy. His past experience as a policeman and his comradeship with other law-enforcement officers will be of great value to him in his new endeavor. Trooper Fischer's hobbies are golf, fishing and hunting.

A retirement party will be held at Skyline Lodge in Dixon on May 7 at 6:30 p.m. Friends who would like to attend this event may call District One headquarters at Sterling, 625-0151, for reservations.

Charged after scuffle

A Dixon man was arrested on a charge of reckless conduct and another was treated and released at KSB Hospital Friday night following a scuffle at 916 Logan Ave.

Police arrested Dennis Smith, 19, of 919 Logan Ave., after an argument with Lee Saunders, 916 Logan. A witness, Sue Singleton, told police that Smith shoved Saunders through the front door of his residence, causing Saunders to cut his arm on glass. The two men said they were arguing about Saunders' driving.

Smith took Saunders to the emergency room of KSB, where Saunders was treated and released.

In Memoriam

In memory of William M. Walters who passed away April 4, 1973.

The memory of someone dear is like a thing of gold
That never dulls or tarnishes
Or grows the least bit old.
It is a ray of sunshine bright
That fills an empty room
And it is like a flower fair
That never fails to bloom.

Loving you always,
Thelma

THE MUSICIANS LIKE SOCCER—Heading toward Royal Albert Hall, trio of London Symphony Orchestra players prepares for rehearsal in soccer uniforms—because the two events are too close together. Soccer practice is next.

Finley gives up Jackson and Holtzman

A's obtain Torrez and Baylor

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Oakland A's Owner Charles O. Finley has avoided his annual contract showdowns with slugger Reggie Jackson and pitcher Ken Holtzman by trading the two to Baltimore.

But in his blockbuster announcement Friday night, the A's owner insisted the salary disputes had nothing to do with the six-player deal with the Orioles.

He said he had been "trying to consummate this deal for the past two months" and that it "was made because I felt it would lead to another world championship."

The A's got 29-year-old righthander Mike Torrez, 20-9 last season with a 3.06 earned-run average, and outfielder Don Baylor, who batted .282, hit 25 homers and stole 32 bases for the Orioles last American League baseball season.

The other players in what Finley said was "a straight three-for-three trade with no money involved" were Bill Van Bommel, a minor league pitcher for the A's since 1971, and Paul Mitchell, a 26-year-old right-hander the Orioles brought up from their Rochester farm club late last season.

Jackson, the A's highest paid and most colorful player, went into seclusion with friends, declining comment. His agent and partner in several Arizona business ventures, Gary Walker, said, "I've never seen Reggie more reflective in his life. He has to give it a lot of thought."

"It isn't necessarily true that he will be going."

Walker said the trade "presents a tremendous amount of problems" for Jackson because of the outfielders' business interests in Arizona and California. "He would have played for a lot less in Oakland than anywhere else," Walker said.

Holtzman said, "As much as I hate to leave Oakland, this might be my once chance to get some security in the game. I'm glad more for financial reasons."

In Baltimore, Orioles' general manager Hank Peters said, "Charlie Finley and I have been talking about this thing off and on ever since last winter... It will affect our payroll, but it doesn't worry me. We have several other unsigned players. I have to believe that Jackson and Holtzman are willing to sign."

Jackson, whose $140,000 salary was cut 20 per cent this year, was seeking a three-year contract for about $200,000 a year. Holtzman, 18-14 last year with a 3.14 earned-run average, also wanted a three-year pact. He sought a total of $460,000, compared with his $93,000 pay last season.

No super players but more talent

By JIM FOX
Telegraph Sports Writer

"We don't have any super players on this team, but, overall, there is more talent than last year," commented Ron Hartje, Sauk Valley College baseball coach speaking on the 1976 squad.

"We are going to be better but then so is everybody else. The competition will be tougher this year."

"Our biggest assets this season will be our defensive strength. The infield is set well defensively as is the outfield."

Hartje's tentative lineup in the infield includes Doug Mitchell at first, Rick Beattie as designated hitter and first base, Tom Housenga at second, Kevin Rubright at the shortstop spot and Craig Robinson at third base.

Tom Cain will be behind the plate with Morey Remmers also doing some catching throughout the season. Roger DeGroot and Dan Nelson will also see action in the Redmen infield.

The outfield will consist of Steve Baumgartner, Mark Eastman, Ken Rotherham, Doug Queckboerner, Remmers and Randy Paisley. Brad Hartje, a catcher, and Paisley are expected to see action in as many as 14 games when they have a break in their tennis schedule.

In the big department — pitching — Sauk carries five possible starters. The Redmen are to be paced by sophomore returnees Jim Baumgart and Rick Wells plus the talents of Doug Bramm, also a third baseman, Housenga and Brad Pyse.

"I'm expecting the pitching to look better," commented Hartje in a pre-season interview. "Bramm has a lot of stuff, but he is a little wild yet. Wells and Baumgart have been on and off during practices and an intra-squad game. We'll just have to wait and see."

Sauk has 22 games on the schedule plus a sectional tournament and the Sauk Invitational which will be held at Reynolds Field in Dixon May 12-14. The sectional is a double elimination tournament at Galesburg. The Redmen will also compete against inmates (Stateville) on May 1 in a game in the Joliet institution.

Asked for an outlook on the season Hartje answered on the cautious side. "We were 10-20 last season. We've pepped up the defense and we are going to be a little better overall, but it should be noted all the other teams we'll be playing are also building. Our hitting remains to be seen. We will be more respectable but I just can't make a season comment until we get a few games under our belts."

Sauk opens its 1976 season versus St. Ambrose in a non-conference single game Sunday at 1 p.m., at Sauk.

Red admits a Cardinals gamble

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Departed fielding whiz Ken Reitz warned that the infield of the St. Louis Cardinals may resemble an earthquake.

But if the Cards can survive early tremors, they have hopes of parlaying young pitching and strong hitting into title contention in the National League East.

"It was a gamble we had to take," St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst acknowledged in respect to trading Reitz to the San Francisco Giants for left-handed pitcher Pete Falcone.

"Even with Reitz, we didn't have the kind of defense we needed," Schoendienst said, however. "If we're going to win, we're just going to have to stop giving away so many runs."

Almost without explanation, a Cards defense that sparked in 1974 became an unstable and erratic in 1975.

The Cards are hoping that Don Kessinger, a 33-year-old shortstop acquired from the Chicago Cubs, can provide the leadership that was absent a year ago.

And at second base, where Ted Sizemore has also moved on via a trade, Mike Tyson is seen as returning to his more natural position after three seasons at the Kessinger post.

A maturing Keith Hernandez, 22, is expected to have few problems in handling first base and is considered capable of hitting better than his .250 average of last year.

That leaves Hector Cruz, 22, who was last summer's Minor League Player of the Year but whose major league abilities are unproven, to fill Reitz' vacant position at third base.

While Cruz' early performances pose a question, the club's hitting and its speed among outfielders Lou Brock, Bake McBride and Reggie Smith do not.

The amazing Brock has as yet to show signs of slowing down despite approaching his 37th birthday and needs only 84 more stolen bases to set a major league career record.

McBride hit .300 with a strong finish in 1975 as one of the NL's swiftest center fielders and Smith, a switch-hitter with chronic back problems, is a strong-throwing right fielder who batted .302.

Problems, nonetheless, were evident for St. Louis a year ago when injuries sidelined first Smith and later McBride for three-week periods.

To guarantee against recurrence, the club has obtained Willie Crawford from Los Angeles in exchange for Sizemore and has reserve Luis Melendez to go with Mike Anderson, who was acquired from Philadelphia.

Strong Cards pitching arms belong to right-handers Bob Forsch, who with better support last year may have come close to 20 victories; John Denny, Lynn McGlothen and Harry Rasmussen.

Forsch, 15-10; McGlothen, 15-13, and Denny, 10-7, all figure to be starters, but Rasmussen, 5-5, may yet be groomed as a successor to Mike Garman in relief.

Stellar hitting, which last year led the NL at .273, and left-hander Al Hrabosky's relief pitching are among St. Louis' hopes for offsetting any deficiencies afield.

Ozark believes

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—All of major sports' All-Star games were scheduled for Philadelphia this Bicentennial year, so why not the National League playoffs and maybe even the World Series?

"Why not indeed," agrees Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies. Ozark has a team he believes capable of winning the National League East, the playoffs and the World Series.

The Phillies battled the Pittsburgh Pirates into the last week of the 1975 season before being eliminated from the East Division race. Ozark figures the additional year of experience for his club, especially the young pitchers, plus two off-season trades, should be enough to end the Pirates' domination of the division.

Phillies personnel director Paul Owens acquired 20-game winner Jim Kaat from the Chicago White Sox and right-hander Ron Reed from the St. Louis Cardinals without giving up a regular player. Reed won 13 games for Atlanta and St. Louis.

Along with Reed and Kaat, the Phillies have, as starters, Steve Carlton, a 15-game winner last year despite a sore elbow; Tommy Underwood, a 14-game winner as a rookie; Larry Christenson, who won 11 after being recalled from Toledo of the International League, and Jim Lonborg, who won eight before succumbing to an injured shoulder from which he has recovered.

The Phillies appear solid in the bullpen with Tug McGraw and Gene Garber, each with 14 saves in 1975, and Tom Hilgendorf, a tough long and short reliever. The fight for the 10th spot on the staff is among Ron Schueler, Wayne Twitchell and John Montague. Ozark has an infield with power on each end and speed and basehit consistency in the middle. Mike Schmidt at third hit 38 home runs to lead the majors for the second straight year. And at first, Dick Allen, healthy and sharp, is banging the ball in the old Allen tape-measure style.

Shortstop Larry Bowa and second baseman Dave Cash produced 391 hits between them, each averaging .305, the first keystone combination to hit over .300 since 1948. Defensively the unit is among the league's best.

The outfield is led by Greg Luzinski, who topped the league with 120 RBI in 1975, hit an even .300 and had 34 homers. Garry Maddox, a Golden Glove winner, is in center field. Jay Johnstone (.329), Ollie Brown (.303) and the recently acquired Bobby Tolan are available in right field.

If the Phillies have a weakness, it would appear to be in the catching department. Bob Boone is an excellent receiver but hit only .246, and often was at odds with Ozark.

Johnny Oates hit .282, but is not rated highly as a receiver and handler of pitchers. Since the Phillies would appear to have an excess of pitchers, a trade for a catcher is not unlikely.

In the utility area, Ozark has Tim McCarver, a catcher-first baseman who is an excellent pinch-hitter from the left side; Tony Taylor, at age 40, still a solid right-handed pinch-batter; Tommy Hutton, a good fielding first baseman who also pinch hits well; Terry Harman, a good defensive replacement for any injured infielder, and outfielder Jerry Martin.

In the spring of 1781, the Spanish Governor of Louisiana, Bernardo de Galvez, led a siege on the British-held Fort George at Pensacola, Fla. In a brilliant naval maneuver, Galvez landed 7,000 troops on March 9. On April 28 the Spaniards broke through the outer fortifications and by May 8 they succeeded in dropping a shell on a powder magazine. The explosion killed or disabled 100 of the 900 British defenders and brought the fort's capitulation the next day. The World Almanac notes.

All of our clergy are cooperative and I am sure our successful crusade is due to the many prayers from the people and clergy."

Ohio to present 'The Music Man'

OHIO — Tickets are on sale at Ohio High School for the production, "The Music Man," by Meredith Willson, to be presented April 9 and 10 at 8 p.m., in the Ohio school auditorium.

Harold Hill is a traveling salesman charlatan who cannot read music or play any instrument, but he is the hottest instrument salesman traveling the mid-west in 1912.

Professor Hill arrives in River City, Iowa, on the Rock Island and during his one week stay convinces the townspeople that they need a big brass band. His motives are dishonest but while fleecing his customers he transforms a dull town into a singing and dancing community.

He has no difficulty in selling them the instruments and fancy uniforms for the band, but when a skeptic questions his method of teaching music, Harold is not too successful in selling what he calls the "think system," of learning music.

Harold has completely charmed all the ladies who have utter faith in him. However, this naive faith, especially that of the beautiful town librarian, subtly transforms him from a scheming con-man into a reliable citizen. Duane Blaine is cast in the role of Professor Hill, and Colleen Gugerty plays Marian Paroo.

Tickets may be obtained from cast members or Miss Gayle Sablotny, or at the door the nights of the performance.
